

Jacqueline Kluver

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Omaha Artist Jacqueline Kluver received her BFA from the University of Nebraska-Omaha. She has worked as a full time artist while raising a family for the past twenty years. Jacqueline Kluver's work is represented by Modern Arts Midtown, Omaha, where she has conducted solo exhibitions consistently since 2003. Her work is primarily large scale and widely collected regionally.

She works with the patience and tenacity of a weaver. She is a weaver of paint. In a Zen-like state of layering patches and strokes of color, patterns emerge and in a continued process, dissolve again into new patterns. Over time she layers "painting over painting" intuitively and with obsessive ritual she arrives at her desired destination. Her work is described as having both vitality and drama with a unique stability of order and chaos.
